

LIGHTING in design

Lighting in Design is the only business-to-business magazine in South Africa that is dedicated solely to the subject of lighting. Established in 2001, this aesthetically appealing publication is designed to showcase lighting services and products. Lighting in Design aims to keep professionals who deal with lighting informed of the latest trends and technologies. It does so by ensuring that its editorial features new projects, informative technical articles, product developments and news of the lighting industry. Although the magazine focuses primarily on South African projects, it also looks at installations further afield to ensure its readers are kept abreast of international trends.

Topics covered regularly include architectural and commercial lighting, public lighting, street lighting, hospitality and entertainment lighting, retail lighting, façade lighting, landscape lighting and LEDs. Also covered is the thought that goes into designing a lighting installation.

Fully conformant to and audited by the Audit Bureau of Circulations (ABC), Lighting in Design is read by architects, building owners, consulting electrical engineers, facilities managers, interior architects, interior designers, lighting professionals and project managers.
